

Structure Sensor Depth Precision

Fun Fact: Depth Precision as a function of range (vs. depth) is actually higher away from the center of an image. So, if you're at the center of a spherical room, your measurement in the center of the sensor view would actually be less accurate than the outer portions of the image.